Anna Busse focuses her practice on antitrust litigation and counseling and on complex commercial litigation. She brings a depth of experience in motion practice at every critical stage of litigation, including motions to dismiss, discovery motions, and motions for summary judgment. Her prior experience as an educator brings an ability to distill complex facts and legal issues into clear, persuasive arguments that lead to successes for clients.

In addition to her litigation experience, Anna has demonstrated a strong commitment to pro bono work, supporting initiatives such as gender diversity on public boards and managing and arguing a direct criminal appeal in the 7th Circuit. Before pursuing her law degree, Anna was a middle school social studies teacher and worked in education policy research. She brings her passion for supporting students to the Boys and Girls Club of Milwaukee Street Law program each year.
