Kevin P.M. Garland navigates clients through all aspects of their real estate-related transactions, offering experienced insight and value across a wide array of matters, including acquisitions, dispositions, joint ventures, and related equity transactions, with a particular focus on real estate financing. Kevin routinely counsels lenders and borrowers in such transactions and has extensive experience representing some of the nation's largest commercial lenders and local banks, as well as private lenders.

Kevin also advises a growing number of clients entering or expanding their presence in two of the nation's largest and most active real estate markets in Southern California and Southeast Texas, having closed a significant volume of buy-side, sell-side, and lender-side loan transactions.
