With a wealth of experience in legislative strategy, policy development, and grassroots engagement, RJ Lambert is a seasoned public affairs advisor supporting the firm's Government Solutions Practice Group at Foley. Prior to joining the firm, RJ held positions with two members of the Wisconsin State Legislature's budget writing committee, where he excelled in crafting legislative and budgetary proposals, conducting thorough research, offering strategic advice, and managing constituent outreach efforts. RJ's tenure in the Wisconsin Legislature provided him with invaluable insights into the intricacies of state-level policymaking.

In addition to RJ's dedicated service to the Wisconsin Assembly, he draws upon his background in the financial and real estate sectors, enhancing his role as a multifaceted business advisor. By integrating his expertise from these industries, RJ ensures a comprehensive understanding of his clients' unique business challenges, allowing him to tailor strategies that drive effective outcomes for clients. His ability to navigate complex legislative landscapes while simultaneously offering business-focused solutions underscores his commitment to delivering exceptional results in the field of public affairs.
