She offers her clients balanced and nuanced advice, backed up by decades of experience. Before turning to litigation, Tammy worked on M&A and other corporate matters and knows how transactional matters can impact commercial litigation.

Tammy's experience includes corporate governance matters, contract and partnership disputes, internal investigations, and litigation and counseling related to consumer protection issues. She brings significant experience representing clients in all aspects of sophisticated and complex commercial litigation, with a particular emphasis on navigating disputes in the Colorado market. She also represents clients in high-stakes contractual disputes as well as competition-related issues, business ownership disputes, consumer fraud, employment conflicts, investigations, professional liability, oil and gas and energy transition litigation, and other business tort claims.

Tammy Westerberg is a seasoned trial attorney, having tried multiple jury trials to verdict; bench trials to judgment; arbitrations; and evidentiary and injunction hearings across industries and across the country. Tammy's complex commercial trial practice includes claims of all kinds: breach of fiduciary duty, partnership divorces, shareholder disputes, breach of contract, misappropriation of trade secrets, statutory employment claims, and real estate disputes, among others. Tammy is adept at the psychology of the practice of law, and her clients seek her out for that reason, along with her comfort, passion, and skills in the courtroom. Tammy is also known for taking on "messy" cases that require unpacking, dissection, and several — often competing — effective strategies. She takes on sensitive and important disputes for her clients, loves complex issues and is skilled at communicating them in layman's terms to the finder of fact. Tammy has received multiple awards from Super Lawyer® (Top 50 Women, Top 100 All-Around), Best Lawyers in Colorado®, Best Lawyers in America®, and as the Law Week Woman Lawyer of the Year.
